

Cajun Flight

CAJUN FLIGHT is a novel that graphically depicts the fiasco of the Vietnam War. The credibility of the Johnson Administration decayed into chaos in March of 1968, as a result of the Tet Offensive and the gore of Khe Sanh. Desperate to retain its position of power, the Administration ordered a CIA-programmed bombing raid, coded Quickstop, to kill Ho Chi Minh. The Agency handpicked elite Marine Corps aviators to deliver the predecessor of Desert Storms ultra-sophisticated weaponry via the F-4 Phantom II. The exquisite classy airline stewardess, Jill, was Brads much needed companion. From their intense passionate moments to their exhilarating escapades; together they shared the events of the war and the duties of a Marine: both at war and play. Accompany these men as they perform in combat, court the ladies, convey their opinions of the war, and render answers as to its sponsors.
